I maintain my website because I want to do it. I want to share my work with anyone who is interested.

But sometimes I wonder, does anyone care about my website enough to say something to me about it? It can be a little depressing to hear nothing, no encouragement.

It takes work to keep my website going. The work is easier to do with encouragement.

Besides somebody saying words of encouragement, maybe somebody could throw a few bucks my way to help pay expenses of my web site. I put a donate button on my website. Let me know if that button doesn't work. I think it does. Just, nobody ever uses it.
