

Oregonauthor.com

Jon Remmerde

Why donate?

I ask for donations so I can continue to build my website with free reading and listening, essays, fiction, poetry, songs and photographs. I've maintained my website in its present form for over a year. I have enough work on hand to post entries for at least five years, and I expect to find more work.

I draw from my own experience, and from the experience of others when I find appropriate material, to show life can be simple, enjoyable, and respectful of all other life.

I need economic assistance to pay for needed equipment, to pay for website hosting, to pay for further help with learning to perform my music well, to pay other musicians and writers I publish on my website, to pay technicians for help with continuing to expand my website wider and into the future.

If my website contributes to your life, please consider contributing to it to help keep it going. I'm grateful for your help.